International Children's Day @Embassy of Poland

More than 70 children gathered with their parents at the Embassy of Poland to learn, feel, and experience the rich cultures of Poland and Hungary.

During the art session, children made their own special art pieces with the characters from the famous Hungarian children's picture book author, Arika Bartos.

The younger children colored pictures from "Bartos Erika". Meanwhile the older children chose a character from the book, and made their very own story. The creative arts were all put together on the Hungarian flag, in order to make their original large-scale flag arts.

Through this activity, all children fully used their creativity and imagination. And most importantly, they had a great fortune to experience and enjoy the Hungarian culture from an artistic aspect.
